Drums and spring kit are fine. The shoes provided had the spring retention pivot pin fell out and had to be pressed back in. They had even escaped the plastic packaging so ended up using the wrong two shoes and had to do one side twice after I spent a few hours head scratching and eventually went to Autozone and bought a new set of shoes. Air conditioning pressure switches are designed to protect the A/C system against pressure that is too high or too low. There are both high pressure and low pressure switches; some vehicles are equipped with just a high pressure switch while others have both.
